

Remember Padre Kino's role in state

On Admission Day – Feb. 14 - as we celebrate the 100th anniversary of Arizona's statehood, we should also remember how Padre Eusebio Francisco Kino brought Catholic faith to the Sonoran Desert.

In 1965, Arizona celebrated the life and legacy of Padre Kino in a ceremony at the U.S. Capitol Rotunda, where then Arizona Gov. Samuel Goddard presented a seven-foot copper statue of Padre Kino to The National Statuary Hall of Heroes. More than 700 dignitaries from throughout the world attended.

The Kino statue effort began in 1961 on the 250th anniversary of Padre Kino's death when the Arizona legislature named Padre Kino as Arizona's national heroic representative and authorized the raising of private donations for his statue. An entire issue of Arizona Highways magazine was dedicated to Padre Kino and the theme of Tucson Rodeo Parade also honored Padre Kino's life. Livestock were auctioned to raise funds.

A copy of the 1965 U.S. Capitol Kino Statue ceremony book can be found on the Kino Heritage Society's website at www.padrekino.com.
